The new flight times are aimed at satisfying the needs of both business passengers, guaranteeing a round trip flight to the city of lights in one day, as well as leisure traffic, by providing privileged access to the Air France network.

"Naples and the entire metropolitan area have great potential and, after many years, we have finally managed to introduce a second daily flight for Paris. This has been a great achievement for all of us and is especially important for travellers because the flight operating from Naples in the morning will arrive at Paris Charles de Gaulle in time to access almost the entire Air France network. The same is true of the return flight which, departing from Paris at 9.00 p.m., provides excellent connections for all passengers bound for Naples in transit from Schengen and non-Schengen countries", declared Lucia Impiccini, Air France – KLM Marketing Director for Italy.

Armando Brunini - CEO of Gesac Spa, the Naples International Airport management company - continued:

"Air France has provided service to and from Naples for a long-time and, for us, the doubling of the number of flights for Paris represents a great achievement which we have been working on for some time. The second direct, scheduled daily flight from Naples to Charles de Gaulle will increase, the availability of international connections from Naples thanks to Air France's impressive network and will also allow our business passengers to go and return from Paris in one day as well as provide a marked impetus for incoming French traffic to our Region".
