Naples International Airport has redesigned the graphic appearance and contents of its website, www.gesac.it, and now offers virtual visitors an attractive interactive site which is extremely useful for all those wishing to plan their trips from the comfort of their homes.

Visitors will find the website time table to be a significant, innovative addition: thanks to new, technologically advanced but user-friendly software, visitors have the possibility of accessing information regarding direct flights as well as non-direct flights thus making it possible to depart from Naples bound for any destination in the world. This powerful instrument, indispensable for tourist operators, allows travellers to plan their trips via the most convenient and time-saving route possible.

In addition to real-time information regarding flights and connections, the site also provides an overall view of all airport-related activities including shopping, services and airlines. Navigating the site is facilitated by interactive airport maps and useful links.

In response to a growing demand for complete on-line communications, the site also provides corporate information regarding the airport operator complete with specific sections dedicated to press releases, call for bids and job opportunities.

The site will be presented at this month's two most important trade fairs: BIT in Milan and Galassia Gutenberg in Naples where visitors are welcome to view the new site at the Gesac stand.
