

Naples – Berlin via Venice, new daily flight starting December 3.

Now Naples is closer to the heart of Europe.

Starting Friday the 3rd of December, the Italian airline Alpi Eagles will offer daily commercial flights to Berlin.

The new connection at the Naples airport will contribute to strengthening the bond between Mediterranean and Central European cultures. In fact, Berlin is one of the more prestigious European cultural capitals and the city of Naples boasts an important heritage of Germanism.

The new flight, operating a 93 seat Fokker 100, with both business and tourist classes, has been scheduled in the following hours:

Naples-Venice- Berlin – Monday-Saturday
Flight E8350 Naples 10:40 - Venice 11:55 - Berlin 14:10

Berlin-Venice-Naples Monday -Sunday (Saturdays excluded)
Flight E8351 Berlin 14:50 - Venice 16:30 – Naples 18:30

To promote the new flight, Alpi Eagles is offering a special roundtrip weekend rate of IT£ 399.000 (boarding taxes excluded) for passengers flying out of Naples from December 3, 1999 to February 29, 2000.

Furthermore, during the Christmas season, special "customer greetings" will be offered to both economy and business class passengers on Alpi Eagles to and from all destinations.

As part of an overall improvement plan, Alpi Eagles has focused special attention on passenger comfort by significantly improving catering services in both business and economy classes and providing elegant, ergonomic leather seating, with increased spacing between seats, for maximum passenger comfort.

In light of a consistent increase in passenger traffic on the Naples Venice route Alpi Eagles introduced its third daily flight between two cities October 31 and new Naples-Berlin via which will go into effect December 3.

Since the beginning of the year, Alpi Eagles has flown a total of 321,595 passengers on its roundtrips domestic (Venice-Cagliari, Venice-Catania, Venice-Palermo) and international (Venice-Athens) flights.

These strategic choices made by Alpi Eagles confirm the growth potential of Naples International Airport. With 3.5 million passengers in 1998, it has become one of the of the most dynamic airports in Italy owing to a steady increase in passenger traffic (+ 39% over the past three years) and a massive investment programme currently in progress aimed at developing and optimising services and infrastructure.
